Manager's Commentary

The Viet Nam Index has established a firm base above the 700 point level and is consolidating gains for the year-to-date ahead of the next move. Whilst we are still less than impressed with the lack of action regarding the share price behaviour of Faros Construction (ROS), up another 16% in February on huge but almost certainly narrowly transacted volume, we feel that we are approaching the end game following its inevitable inclusion in the non-discriminatory ETF indices. Call us old-fashioned, but we prefer to own shares in companies on 5.3x 2016 actual & 5.1x 2017 forecast earnings such as Hoa Phat Group (HPG) rather than those on 172.4 and 144.7x the same periods (ROS, naturally) even without the growth (probably in receivables). If you prefer the latter approach I highly recommend buying a Vietnam focused ETF.

Our view continues positive for the next several years based on a dynamic macro landscape topped with re-rating possibilities & a frisson of MSCI Emerging inclusion, even though we are perhaps not as bullish on earnings growth as consensus for this year at least.
